A day in the coffee hills west of Chiang Rai. Ride out past Singha Park and climb to Doi Chang, an Akha village above 1,500 m that grows some of the best-known coffee in Thailand; stop at one of the farms for a cup. The climb is very steep in places and riders report a shallow water crossing on the way up, so this is one for confident riders on a bike with some ground clearance. Descend to Mae Suai and return on Road 118.

Fuel stops Chiang Rai and Mae Suai. None on the mountain.

Water crossings None
